Hi,

Dear Family of Ms. Sturgill:

Thank you for printing the obit. here in the Roanoke paper. My parents pointed it out to me yesterday. It's odd, because @ a week ago I thought of Ms. Sturgill and wondered if she were still "with us". I was a student in her first grad class @ 40 yrs. ago. I will be 46 in Feb. I thought I was lucky to have gotten the best 1st grade teacher @ Roland E. Cook school. It's nice to open this web site and to be able to see a picture. One memorable thing about Ms. Sturgill was her dark, expressive eyes. I see that they did not change! :0) Some memories of her class are the reading groups that she divided by skill level-- the Red Birds, Blue Birds, and Yellow Birds. I was lucky to be a "Red Bird" due to being a good reader. I also remember her allowing us to have weekly show and tell, and her being a good disciplinarian. I spent alot of time with my head down on my desk due to "talking too much". :0) We could really use more Ms. Sturgills theses days. I am now a counselor for adults with mental health and addiction issues here in Roanoke at the "local mental health facility". Your mom helped me get a good start on education and was a great teacher! My condolences to all of you!
