“ Dear Mima, I'll always miss my ticket and a hug or kiss on Sunday mornings...Brig was a special man, always ready to lend a hand, honest and cheerful....his stance reminded me of his days of military training at the Citadel, tall and confident...I loved the look he always had for you, much love and adoration...and I couldn't help notice holding your hand during church.. I guess I got more than a sermon at church, I saw love in action.. Truly, the presence of the Lord was apparent...
Much love to you and your loving family, Terri

“ I remember Brig from our days as cadets at The Citadel. A fine gentlemen from his early adulthood, Brig exemplified the virtues we all hoped to attain in our development. He will be sadly missed by his friends and family -- and by his admiring classmates from The Citadel Class of 1974.
