“ I will always remember the conversations I had with Jim about cars from gas monkey garage, current events, politics, work (especially when I was driving all over the U.S. and Canada). He loved hearing about new places and always said that, if his health were better, he'd love to go with me. I'm sorry he never got the chance. We bumped heads very few times over the last 26 years. Jim was a very genuine person. If he said something, he meant it and that's a very rare quality these days. He was kind to every person he met and most people loved him for it. He had manners when he spoke to an elder, he never spoke roughly in front of women or children and he avoided conflict with everyone but his sisters. He loved the Braves and the Indians. He liked the panthers. He was so proud of his Clemson Tigers. He loved Kit and Carter and Caroline beyond words and that love ran deep because he never had children of his own.

He was my brother-in-law, he was my friend and he was a good man. I'll miss him. I hope he finds peace and I hope he is, right now, sitting with Ross and Marcia catching them up on all the happenings.

Love ya Uncle Buck
