“ Hey Bsby! Happy Birthday! Bet you're having a grand birthday party up there! God, I miss you so much! Life is just not fair! I don't understand why you had to go when you had so much ahead of you. Why couldn't he have just taken me or one of us old people? We're never going to amount to anything and you had big plans for yourself. Anyway, I guess we'll understand one day. Just remember I love you and will see you again one sweet day! Happy Birthday Baby! Love you, Aunt Tonya (and don't you dare ask which one - lol)###imported-begin###Aunt Tonya###imported-end##

“ Hey Babe! We just got back from going to your memorial at the Vet School. You had such good taste in friends. They were great! They miss you so much too! You were definitely well loved by all that knew you. I just wish I could have visited you up there while you were still with us. I know you already know about the new baby on the way. Of course we are excited but have such mixed emotions without you here. If I know you, you had a hand in speeding up this process for us. Take care of this sweet baby up there til Jerry and Tiff are ready for them down here. I love you so much and so wish you were still here with us. “ Josh, My wonderfully brilliant Josh, I can't believe you're not here anymore. I miss you more than I can say. Our family is not the same. How are we supposed to continue with our lives when such a vital part is missing? We are walking through every day trying to go on, even though our hearts are broken into. You were the one of my nephews and nieces that I knew was going to make it big. You were always so sure of what you wanted and went after it no matter what. I don't know if I told you enough how proud of you I am. Please ask God to be with your parents. Especially your mom, she is lost without you. Tell Daddy hello and ya'll please be waiting for us. Can't wait to see you again when we join you in God's House. I love you and miss you more than you can possibly know. Chloe's beautiful. She has your beautiful piano playing hands and I hope she has just a little of your talent. Check in on us from time to time. We know you are ok but a sign sometimes would be awesome. Love you, Aunt Tonya (you know which one - ha ha)###imported-begin##Aunt Tonya###imported-end##

“ Jerry, Donna and Boyce. I am so sadden to hear of Josh's passing. Please know that your family has been in my thoughts and prayers since I heard the news. It is beyond our understanding why we lose such great people too soon. Josh touched many people's lives. I will always remember him as Jerry's shy, kid brother who always had a smile, looked a lot like Jerry and took care of my dog when I dropped him off at the Hartsville Animal Hospital. I bet he's looking after all the animals in heaven now. Josh was a wonderful person - every human and animal who knew him will have a void in their heart. I pray God will help mend yours. With love,

“ Dear Mr. & Mrs. Howle,
Even though I never met your son Josh, I feel a connection to him through my nephew Ryan Cramer. I believe we are all connected spiritually to one another, since we are all God's children and that was proven to me this past week.
A deep sadness came over me on Wednesday, June 17th. I would get bouts of uncontrollable crying, which lasted throughout Thursday. The moment my sister Matti Schmidt (Ryan's grandmother) called and told me about Josh, the dark cloud was lifted. I knew the sadness and tears were for him and Ryan's loss of one of his "dearest" friends.
Even though I live in Columbus, Ohio, my heart and spirit is there with you each at this time. May God's wisdom and blessings be with you and your family, always.
Sincerely,
Sue Snyder##imported-begin##Sue Snyder##imported-end##

“ To the entire Howle family,
My son, Ben, and many of his UGA friend's lives were touched tremendously by Josh in the short time they knew him. He helped move Ben out of his apartment when no one else was available using his truck. Reading his obituary showed he was so mature beyond his age. We never know why a person is taken from us at such a young age. But we know that God has the big picture plan that we know nothing about. His life and the way he lived it will be an inspiration to all that knew him to live our lives better knowing what we will someday have in store for us in heaven. Josh is in his heavenly home now and would not come back here if he could. What we need to do now is live the kind of life he did, so we can meet again one day in heaven. I know your hearts are heavy laden with grief and sorrow now. But, trust in the Lord to give you strength. God bless and keep all of you.##imported-begin##Dicky Erwin##imported-end##

“ Dear Howle family, I am so sorry for your loss. I only met Josh on Wednesday at Hartsville Animal Hospital when he treated my little dog. “ Boyce, I remember you as a little boy and as a co-worker at Sonoco. I knew your dad, Kenneth and your sweet mother. Your aunt Miriam is one of my dear friends. Our family, also, has experienced a tremendous loss this week. My oldest brother's (Jimmy Stratton) grandson, Race Stratton, drowned Monday night. His funeral was yesterday. I've watched his parents, Doyle and Brenda and all our extended family as they grieved. I can't sympathize, for I've never lost a child, and I can't imagine the horrific pain you, Donna and the rest of your family is experiencing. From one hurting family to another, we are praying for you. One of my classmates sent this message to me this week and I've read it several times. I hope it will bring you some comfort. "When you come to the end of all the light you know, and it is time to step into the darkness of the unknown, faith is knowing that one of two things will happen. Either you will be given something solid to stand on - or you will be taught to fly." Race couldn't swim, Joshua could drive but something went terribly wrong. However, both of them now know how to fly. Wayne Stratton Wallace & Harry C. Wallace,
