“ Dennis and Taylor, I hope this message finds you. I was a client of Renee for quite some time while I lived in Hartsville. I enjoyed my time with her, as she told me many stories about both of you. I was trying to find her on Myspace tonight, but instead found this. I had no idea she was gone. I am so sad that I waited too late to look her up and hope she knew when I moved that she was very special to me. I couldn't wait to one day move back so we could go to lunch and relax like we used to. My heart just broke when my Yahoo search turned up the obituary and at first I just couldn't believe it. Taylor, may you carry your mother's memory in your heart wherever you may go. Dennis, may you do the same (ps, my fave story about you was the "bullet") People always say if there's anything I can do....but truly, if either of you could use a new friend, please email me.##imported-begin##Bev Gallegos##imported-end##

“ I have been away for so long, I didn't even know Renee was ill. Ray, my friend, I am so, so sorry. My heart truly goes out to you, and to Mom as well as Dennis and Taylor. I can't imagine the loss you're all feeling. I know it's been a long time since I've seen any of you, but I'm coming tomorrow and hope you're all home.

“ Dear Taylor and family,
Ashley and I were devastated to hear of Renee's death. Taylor, your mom was one of the best! She supported us during our cheerleading days and loved you more than anything. She and I had many conversations on how much you and Ashley were alike and how we would do whatever it took to make our daughters happy and well loved. Your mom will live on through you, Taylor. So make her proud, and know that the love she has for you never dies.

I bless the day that I first stopped in to get my nails done; our relationship soon developed into a true friendship, and we have been friends for seven years now. I was so shocked to hear this sad news. Taylor, please know that your mama loved you and wanted the best for you. Dennis, she was so proud of you and all that you've accomplished. We don't have the words within us to tell you how sorry we are. But, what we do know is that in time, God brings us to a point of healing and acceptance and somehow his love and his grace heals our hurt. We will miss Renee so much as she was just a constant bright star, always there to cheer us up and bring a smile. Its selfish of us to say we want her back, when now she's in heaven making the angels smile, bringing joy and laughter to a different part of God's creation. “ Dennis and family, Leon and I are so sorry for your loss, but we are sure that "He" knows what "He" is doing. We are sure that "He" needed another jewel in Heaven. When Naomi called about this, the Spirit of the Lord made intercession for you and your family. He tells us in His word that the Spirit himself maketh intercession for the saints according to the will of God. It is so comforting to know that He will stick closer than a brother to us. This morning as I lay in bed thinking of you, He gave me a precious vision of a great big hand moving and placing it on another hand. You could feel it's impact, and I'm sure so could you. When we are in His hand or when His hand is upon someone or something, it is always blessed. “ My daughter, Caroline Terry was a patron of Renee's before she became ill with Leukemia and passed away. She thought so much of her, as do I. When Caroline moved to Columbia to attend USC she would drive all the way from Columbia just to have Renee do her nails! I first met her during vacation bible school at New Marker Methodist Church when my twins were invited to attend by Sue Watkins, whose son, Mark, is married to my niece Melanie. Renee always had a nice smile and words of encouragement each time I saw her and she was so kind to keep up with how Caroline was doing during the 10 months we were in Atlanta for her cancer treatments and Bone Marrow Transplant. She even bought chicken bogs tickets when there was a fund raiser in Hartsville for my daughter's transplant fund and stood in line for a long time to give us her sympathy, love and concern at Caroline's visitation. In a nutshell she was a kind and caring, genuine person and friend to my daughter and to me and I will always remember her beautiful smile and kind heart. I cannot imagine what you are all going through - the weight of such grief is so much to bare but know that I will lift you up in prayer each day in the days ahead. I pray that you may find comfort and peace in your memories and the love you shared with Renee. She will remain in your hearts forever.

God bless you!
