“ Sarah was in my Sunday School class at Harvest Baptist. I visited her the week before she died and read one of her favorite Psalms, one she had memorized, Psalm 103. In that Psalm, David wrote, "Who healeth all thy diseases." Sarah agreed, God sometimes heals by taking us home to be with Him. My life has been blessed and enriched by knowing Sarah. Sarah, I will see you one day soon! Lord, minister to Sarah's family and friends with your grace, mercy, peace and loving kindness.

“ We weren't all that close. But my memories of her include:
* Her making me hot chocolate with milk on the stove.
* Her sending me into a grocery store as a young boy for her Virginia Slims.
* Her knee high, black leather boots. She reminded of WONDER WOMAN in those boots.
* Brother-sister fights with my Dad. I don't know that fights with my sister could even be compared to their fights. I remember being on her side, especially when I was the topic of the heated debate.

In my eyes, she was a strong woman.

“ Aunt Sarah was a very special person. She was very proper and very mannerly. She was truly one of a kind. More importantly, she loved GOD. I pray she is resting in peace and flying high with the angels.
