“ WT was a friend of ours beginning around 2009. He stayed with us now and again, and we really loved him like a son. Being that we had no children, we had a ball taking him different places and hearing him sing, and doing different things just hanging out. We got to meet his lovely grandmother and he talked nonstop about his children, Uncle Nemo, and other members of his family. He even walked great distances to sing to my mother and father when she was in the hospital. One day when my husband and I went to the house, it was filled with blue smoke. I said WT what are you doing? And he says I'm just making a cake. I said why is it blue in here and he said I'll show you in a minute. Lo and behold he cut the whole bottom crust which was black as soot and handed me a piece and said here, taste this. It did not even taste like smoke. We stuck our feet under each other's table many times. Fast forward 2011, my husband and I took on a new ministry at a girl's home and we were not to see each other for a while. The past year, we reacquainted and restarted our friendship. Too much to tell. Good bye, our friend. Love you forever. Dicky and Gladys aka "Ma n Pa".
